For giving some reasons why the compensations paid to janitors should be increased. The janitors, so the communication states, in some of the buildings are compelled to have assistants and to pay them from their salaries. For some buildings an examination is required before an appointment is made, and all the janitors are expected to act as "a universal tinker" and make small repairs in the buildings. In the majority of instances the salary nowipaid is about $500, and it is urged that the increase in these cases be to $720. In cases of higher pay an increase is asked.

BEKAKING UP IN BRAZIL

It is now generally admitted that there is no room for further doubt that the province of Rio Grande do Sul in Brazil has dec pendence, and, as it is reported that its inde-pendent territory includes about fifty thousand fighting Germans among its population, the revolt there is undoubtedly serious. The report that there had been fighting in the province of Rio Grande do Sul has been confirmed. The trouble referred to is said to have its center at Port Alegre, the capital of Rio Grande do Sul, but the telegraph wires leading from the sup posed scene of the fighting baving been cut some time must elapse before definite news gets even so far as Rio de Janeiro. The announcement is made that at least another province—Pernambuco—has revelted against the dictation of Fonseca and has declared itself independent of the government as now constituted.

At least two other provinces are on the verge of declaring their independence, and rumor also has it that the "restoration" party held sway in one of the revolted provinces. This report, which comes from Bahis, may have it region to improving the interval of the restoration. have its origin in imperialist circles, but, be that how it may, the situation of affairs would seem to indicate a long and bloody civil war in the near future, the overthrow of Fonseca's dictatorship and the establishment in Brazil of dictatorship and the establishment in Brazil of a number of separate republics somewhat similar to those of South Africa.

The German population of Rio Grande do Sul is reported to be organizing into armed bodies of men on the plan of the Dutch settlers of South Africa and to be determined to defend the independence of their new state.

The troops under the command of Marshal da Fonseca are said to have been ordered to move upon Rio Grande do Sul.

Great excitement prevails at Rio de Janeiro move upon Rio Grande do Sul.

Great excitement prevails at Rio de Janeiro and throughout Brazil. It is reported that Marshal da Fouseca has been informed that he is suffering from a disease which must soon cause his death, and that he has announced his willingness to resign the reins of power.

A dispatch received at 7 p.m. from Pernam A dispatch received at 7 p.m. from Pernambuco brings further alarming intelligence regarding the situation of affairs in Brazil, There is no doubt that the situation in Brazil, arising out of the assumption of dictatorial powers by the late president of the republic, Marshal Deodoro da Fonseca, is rapidly approaching a point where a resort to arms will be necessary to establish the position of the dictator.

The dispatch shows that steps will have to be immediately taken to prevent, if possible the disintegration of the republic.

PARA DECLARES ITS INDEPENDENCE. The province of Grao Para has followed the HAVING MADE IMPROVEMENTS AT OUR example set by Rio Grande do Sul, and has declared its independence. Grac Pars, or, as it is better known, Pars, is one of the most important provinces of Brazil. It is situated in the extreme north of the country. It contains 412,467 square miles, and its population is estimated at 343,511 souls, 10,000 of whom are supposed to be Indians. The capital of the province is Pars, situated on the right bank of the Tocantins river. Here are located the governor's palace, cathedral, several churches, convents, barracks and numerous other public buildings. It is the great rubber port of the world. It exports, in addition to other products of the province, cotton, vanilla, annatto, dye woods, honey, wax and a great variety of other vegetable and animal products. The trade is mostly with Liverpool, London, Barbadoes, Cayenne and North American ports.

The Tocantins or Para river is celebrated for its bore. The river is really one of the mouths of the Amazon and it is here that the bore is chiefly manifested, the tide rising to a great height in a few minutes before the new and full moons by a vast wave fifteen feet in height, sometimes followed by three others, which enter the estuary with great violence.

The dispatch received last evening further clared its independence. Grao Pars, or, as it is sometimes followed by three others, which enter the estuary with great violence.

The dispatch received last evening further stated that it is expected that the independence movement, which had its origin in the province of Rio Grande do Sul, and which has been promptly followed in Grao Para, would be followed by a similar declaration by the province of Bahia. FONSECA PREPARING TO PIGET.

Dictator Fonseca is moving rapidly to suppress these attempts to set up separate governmembers were initiated. The report of the quarter ending October 31 showed that forty-eight new members were added during the quarter. Messrs. Corby, Piper, James M. Thompson and Thorne, with Mrs. Lida Salkeld, were elected representatives to the grand lodge. The lodge congratulated the Commissioners for their action in rejecting so many applications for liquor license and hoped that they would added to the country. He was subsements and he has ordered a warship to proceed panished from the country. He was subsequently allowed to return and he. without doubt, possesses greater political influence than any other man in the province.

The situation, as may be judged from the events which are rapidly crowding upon each other, is daily becoming more grave, and what the result of the widespread discontent in Brazil will be can only be a matter of conjecture.

THE DICTATOR'S ILLNESS. The dictator might perhaps do more to establish the new order of things were it not for the fact that he is a sick man. Some reports the fact that he is a sick man. Some reports have it that the disease from which he is suffering is cancer, which, if true, would necessarily prevent him from taking the field in person should resort to arms be necessary. That he will take vigorous measures to suppress these latest revolts against his authority is not doubted by those who are acquainted with the personal characteristics of the man. He in no way lacks determination, and to gain his ends he will fight desperately to sweep all obstacles from his path.

NAVAL FORCES IN BRAZIL. The naval forces of Brazil comprise 5,790 offi cers and men. There are five naval arsenals, one each at Rio Janeiro, Para, Pernambuco one each at Rio Janeiro, Para, Pernambuco, Bahia and Ladario de Matto Grosso. Of course, in the event of hostilities there would be a chance that the arsenals at Para and Bahia, the capitals of two of the revolting provinces, would fall into the hands of the provincial authorities, and the ammunition, &c., in them would be used against the dictator's forces. The navy includes four seagoing, six coast defense armorclads, five first-class, six second-class and three third-class torpedo boats, besides a torpedo school ship. Of unprotected vessels there are two first-class and two second-class cruisers, two training corvettes, nine screw gun boats, eight paddle gun boats, two transports, one battery tender and a number of auxiliary steamers and other vessels.

the two most powerful vessels are the Rischuelo, 5,700 tons displacement, and a smaller vessel, the Aquidaban. Both vessels are protected by a belt of steel-faced armor, having a maximum thickness of eleven inches. Back vessel has two turrets protected by ten-inclarmor. The principal armament consists of armor. The principal armament consists of four twenty-ton breech-loading guns carried in the turrets and an auxiliary armament of six in one ship and in the other four seventy-pounders and machine guns. Both vessels are built of steel, sheathed with wood and metal. They have a good sail spread and are capable of keeping the sea for long periods.

The Selimose and Javari are two powerful double-turreted ships of light draft, suitable for coast defense or river service. They cach carry four ten-inch Whitworth guns.

The army on a war footing in 1890 consisted of 26,617 men, but it was the intention of the government to reorganize its forces, and congovernment to reorganize its forces, and con-sequently the exact number of effective men
